The petition of Thomas Stewardson on behalf of himself and the other trustees for the estate of Samuel Caldwell, surviving partner of James Meese, bearing date Philadelphia, 5th Month 17th 1799, stated as follows, viz. That a certain John Collins had in consequence of fraudulent deeds poll, obtained patents for two certain tracts of land, one situate in the county of Northumberland, surveyed to Samuel Caldwell in pursuance of a warrant dated in 1774; and the other situate now in Luzerne county, surveyed to said Caldwell by a warrant also dated in 1774—and requested that patents might be granted, for the said tracts, to William Crammond, Edward Tilghman, John Ashley, and Thomas Stewardson, trustees of the estate of Samuel Caldwell, surviving partner of James Meese, as the said two tracts were part of the estate of Meese and Caldwell.

Whereupon the Board having considered the same, ordered that at least sixty days notice be given in one of the Philadelphia newspapers, and in the Lancaster Journal to the said Collins or his assigns, to appear before the Board on the first Monday in October next, to shew cause if any he or they have, why patents should not issue for the said two tracts to the said trustees agreeably to the prayer of the said petition.

PHILADELPHIA,

THURSDAY EVENING, AUGUST 8.

MR. FENNO,

YOR inserting the following letter in your paper will oblige the Committee of Correspondence. 7th Aug. 1799.

Philadelphia May, 27th, 1799.

SIR,

DEEPLY interested in the approaching election of Governnor, the event of which involves almost all that is valuable to Freemen, we deem it our duty to solicit your co-operation in the promotion of JAMES ROSS of Pittsburgh, to that important and responsible station.

Those who wish to preserve the happiness and independence of their country; to suppress the spirit of anarchy and insurrection; to retain the true republican characteristics—equality of rights and subjection to the constitution and laws established by the will of the whole society, will not hesitate to give their suffrages in favour of a man whom even his enemies find no cause to reproach: A man of mild temper, plain manners and easy access, who unites with the spirit of early life the sound judgment of mature age, who has not betrayed the portion of confidence you have already reposed in him, and has afforded no reason to fear, that in his hands the original spirit of American Liberty will be adulterated by the new and dangerous tenets that divide or desolate the greatest portion of Europe.

To us the present occasion appears to call so loudly for a man of this description that, we flatter ourselves, nothing more is necessary than to establish some convenient mode of co-operation with our Fellow Citizens to give a beneficial direction to our common efforts, and to detect, and, by detecting, defeat the endeavours of those who would wish to impose on the public choice a man already in possession of a dignified and lucrative station, on whose character, notwithstanding some provocation has been given, we shall make no invidious comments, satisfied with observing, that the present times manifestly require rather the vigor, than the decline, of life for great and responsible stations.

In order to accomplish the general system of co-operation a number of Members of the Legislature, with the concurrence of such of their Fellow Citizens as could conveniently attend, suggested the nomination of Committees in the different countries, for the purpose of opening a correspondence with us who were named as a Committee for the city.

It was not expected that this measure would any way interfere with such steps as might be found expedient in the different parts of the state; on the contrary, it was hoped that, in every part of the state, the Inhabitants would meet at an early period, and from such committees and arrangements, among themselves, as would produce a beneficial and successful union.

It happens, however, too often, that, where we have much time before us, we defer the season of action till it is so late as to impair its effect, and we are not without apprehension, that this may have been, in some degree, the case on the present occasion.

Perceiving the activity of those who support the other candidate, we take the liberty of reminding you, that, in an election comprizing with a vast extent of territory a most numerous body of electors, whose passions, prejudices and fears, on whose very virtues, our opponents hope to practice with success, no time should be lost. The summer may slip away before a suitable plan of mutual support is adopted, and the hour of election may find us disunited and unprovided to resist those artifices and deceptions frequently exhibited by party, and long deplored by good citizens.

Let every man, therefore, call to mind his solemn obligations to his Country, to his Friends, his Family; let each consider himself as individually bound and answerable not merely for his own vote, but for his strenuous exertions to excite his neighbours to assist in securing, as far as the choice of a good Governor can do it, a continuance of our happiness and posterity; let meetings of your good Citizens from the several townships be speedily convened, and your county be divided according to its election districts, and those again into smaller divisions, so that no man, having a right to vote, be passed over without an invitation to perform his duty on that important day; let close attention be paid to the false rumours, the groundless calumnies, which have already begun to be used as engines of political operations, and while on our part, we abstain from practices so dishonorable and malevolent let us maintain our ground by the exclusive aid of moderation, truth and firmness.

To you, Sir, whose established character gives us a confidence in your disposition to promote the good of your country, we have thought it our duty to address ourselves; and from you we shall be very happy to receive any future communications, to which we promise a ready attention.

ELECTION.

AT a numerous assembly of respectable republicans, convened by previous notice, at the house of Mr. Christopher Mixsel, in the borough of Easton, on the evening of the thirtieth day of July, 1799, for the purpose of taking into consideration the subject of the approaching important Election.

Robert Traill was appointed chairman, & Abraham Bachman, Secretary.

After the meeting was thus organized from a conscioufness that the continuance of all the political blessings we enjoy depends alone on the virtue and vigilance of the citizens; that while the privilege secured to them by the constitution of electing their rulers shall be faithfully exercised, we may defy the insidious intrigues and open assaults of all our enemies; and that party spirit and prejudice always tend to exclude that candid and dispassionate investigation after truth, which ought to be the first object with every real friend to his country.—They proceeded to a cool and impartial discussion of the relative merits of the two candidates for the Governor's Office, and the arguments urged in favor of either of them by their respective advocates; and then passed the following resolutions:

1st. Resolved unanimously, That this meeting do justly estimate the eminent services rendered by Thomas M'Kean, Esq. as a Member of the Convention which formed the excellent Constitution under which we live, as also those he has for a number of years performed in his official capacity as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court; yet considering that he holds an honorable appointment for life or during good behavior, with an independent salary—that a Spanish nobleman, now minister from the court of Spain in the city of Philadelphia is his son-in-law; that Spain the most despotic government in Europe is now not only committing depredations on the commerce of the United States, but also stirring up dissatisfaction among the Indians on our frontiers; that the said Thomas M'Kean is so very far advanced in years as to be unable to undergo the fatigues of a campaign, should he be constitutionally called on to head the military forces of the state in case of necessity; that he has renounced the system of politics which he was warmly attached to, and ably advocated with James Ross, his present competitor and many others of our firmest patriots at the time of the adoption of the federal and state constitutions.—That on the other hand, James Ross is a man of distinguished abilities, and unimpeachable public and private character, of mild temper and easy access, in the prime of life, and fully competent to the discharge of all the important duties of that highly responsible station; and without any connexion, domestic or otherwise, which can possibly induce a suspicion of the slightest bias in favor of any country or government but our own.

This meeting, therefore, without presuming to depreciate the merits or services of the honorable Thomas M'Kean, Esq. from a fair and deliberate comparison of the characters of the two gentlemen, and from a firm and conscientious conviction that they are promoting the essential interest of this state and of the United States, do

2d. Resolve unanimously, That they will by all fair and honorable means, support James Ross, of Pittsburgh, for Governor, at the ensuing election, and warmly recommend him to their fellow citizens.

3d. Resolved, That the Chaitman and Secretary do sign these Resolutions, and cause them to be published in both the papers printed in this borough, also in one or more of the republican papers in Philadelphia, and in the papers printed at Reading by Mess'rs Jungman and Shnyder.

ROBERT TRAILL, Chairman,
ABRAHAM BACHMAN, Sec'ry.

ELECTION.

THE Friends to the Election of JAMES ROSS, Esq. of Pittsburgh, as Governor of this state, are requested to meet at Dunwoody's Tavern, in Market street, on Tuesday Evening next, at half past 7 o'clock.

From the Cornwall Chronicle.

The following Discovery, which, from the facts related, seems to have furnished mankind with a certain Remedy in PUTRID DISEASES, is of so important a nature, that we lose no time in laying it before our Readers; and if a substitute can be found in this Island for YEAST or BARM, it may possibly be attended with the same happy effect here; at least we are persuaded that the Gentlemen of the Faculty will give it a trial, and we trust the other Printers of this Island will take an early opportunity to make this communication general: We have heard of a composition very nearly resembling Yeast, being made by Negroes with Molasses Skimmings and Water—We believe there is commonly a small quantity to be found near the Bung of newly imported Porter, and we understand that it may be had from England in a dry prepared state to answer all the purposes of its original state.—If any of our readers is acquainted with a proper succedaneum, a public communication thereof may serve the general interests of humanity.

(From the SUN, of March 30.)

A certain remedy in Putrid Diseases.

IN this philosophic age, when diseases so often change their appearance from what physicians had any former experience of, it is a pleasing reflection, that the study of medicine has of late been so much simplified, and almost every distemper incident to the human body so fully explained, as to come within the common apprehension of mankind.—The following facts communicated to the world by the Rev. Mr. Cartwright, afford an antidote for the most dangerous disease with which the human body can be afflicted; so that it is hoped one of the most crowded avenues to the grave is at length in a great measure closed.

"Seventeen years ago I went (says this benevolent Clergyman) to reside at Brampton, a populous village near Chesterfield. I had not been there many months before a putrid fever broke out among us. Finding by far the greater number of my parishoners too poor to afford themselves medical assistance, I undertook, by the help of such books on the subject of medicine as were in my possession, to prescribe for them. I early attended a boy, about 14 years of age, who was attacked by the fever. He had not been ill many days before the symptoms were unequivocally putrid. I then administered bark, wine, and such other remedies as my books directed. My exertions were however of no avail; his disorder grew every day more untractable and malignant, so that I was in hourly expectation of his dissolution. Being under the necessity of taking a journey, before I sat off I went to see him, as I thought for the last time, and I prepared his parents for the event of his death, which I considered as inevitable, and reconciled them in the best manner I was able, to a loss which I knew they would feel severely. While I was in conversation on this distressing subject with his mother, I observed, in a small corner of the room, a tub of wort working. The sight brought to my recollection an experiment I had somewhere met with, "of a piece of putrid meat being made sweet by being suspended over a tub of wort in the act of fermentation." The idea flashed into my mind, that the yeast might correct the putrid nature of this disease, and I instantly gave him two large spoonfuls. I then told the mother, if she found her son better, to repeat this dose every three hours. I then sat out for my journey; upon my return, after a few days, I anxiously enquired after the boy, and was informed he was recovered. I could not repress my curiosity, though I was greatly fatigued with my journey, and night was come on; I went directly to where he lived, which was three miles off, in a wild part of the moors. The boy himself opened the door, looked surprisingly well, and told me he had felt better from the instant he took the yeast.

"After I left Brampton, I lived in Leicestershire. My parishoners being there few and opulent, I dropped the medical character entirely and would not prescribe for my own family. One of my domestics falling ill, accordingly the apothecary was sent for. His complaint was a violent fever, which in its progress became putrid. Having great reliance, and deservedly, in the apothecary's penetration and judgment, the man was left solely to his management. His disorder, however, kept daily gaining ground, till at length the apothecary considered him in very great danger. At last, finding every effort to be of service to him baffled, he told me he considered it to be a lost case, and that in his opinion the man could not survive twenty four hours. On the apothecary thus giving him up, I determined to try the effects of yeast. I gave him two large spoonfuls, and in 15 minutes from taking the yeast, his pulse, though still feeble, began to get composed and full. He, in 32 minutes from his taking it, was able to get up from his bed and walk in his room. At the expiration of the second hour, I gave him a bason of sago, with a good deal of lemon, wine and ginger in it; he eat it with an appetite; in another hour he repeated the yeast; an hour afterwards I gave the bark as before; at the next hour he had food; next had another dose of yeast; and then went to bed; it was nine o'clock; he told me he had a good night, and was recovered. I however repeated the medicine, and he was soon able to go about his business as usual.

"About a year after this, as I was riding past a detached farm house at the outskirts of the village, I observed a farmer's daughter, standing at tre door, apparently in great affliction. On enquiring into the cause of her distress, she told me her father was dying: I dismounted, and went into the house to see him; I found him in the last stage of a putrid fever. His tongue was black, his pulse was scarcely perceptible, and he lay stretched out like a corpse, in a state of drowsy insensibility. I immediately procured some yeast, which I diluted with water, and poured down his throat; I then left him with little hopes of recovery; I returned, however, in about two hours, and found him sensible and able to converse; I then gave him a dose of bark; he afterwards took at a proper interval, some refreshment. I staid with him till he repeated the yeast, and then left him, with directions how to proceed; I called upon him the next morning at nine o'clock; I found him apparently well, and walking in his garden. He was an old man upwards of 70.

"I have since administered the yeast to above fifty persons labouring under putrid fevers; and what is singular (continues this benevolent man) I have not lost a patient."

The above has been handed to us by a gentleman in this city, who lost two children by the fever which has been so prevalent of late. He had a third child who was taken ill, and this prescription having come to his knowledge, he made the experiment which was happily crowned with success. We shall be happy to record farther proofs of its efficacy.

Edinburgh, March 1799.

OF THE YELLOW FEVER.

The following extract from a Voyage to the South Seas, lately published by Captain Colnett, of the Royal Navy, is highly deserving of the attention of all commanders of ships and others who go into hot climates as it exhibits a successful mode of treating the Yellow Fever, a disorder which alas! has so often baffled the skill of Medical Practitioners. (Page 83)

"The whole crew had been more or less affected by the Yellow Fever, from which horrid disorder I was however so fortunate as to recover them, by adopting the method that I saw practised by the natives of Spanish America, when I was a prisoner among them. On the first symptoms appearing, the fore part of the head was immediately shaved, and the temples and poll washed with vinegar and water. The whole body was then immersed in warm water, to give a free course to perspiration; some opening medicine was afterwards administred, and every four hours a dose of ten grains of James's Powders. If the patient was thirsty, the drink was weak white wine and water, and a slice of bread to satisfy an inclination to eat. An increasing appetite was gratified by a small quantity of soup, made from the mucilaginious part of the Turtle, with a little vinegar in it. I also gave the sick, sweetmeats and other articles from my private stock, whenever they expressed a distant wish for any, which I could supply them with. By this mode of treatment, the whole crew improved in their health, except the carpenter, who, though a very stout robust man, was at one time in such a state of delirium, and so much reduced, that I gave him over; but he at length recovered."

A more judicious treatment of this disorder could not have been devised. The same good sense, indeed, which directed the medical concerns (for there were no surgeon on board), seems to have prevailed upon every occasion of difficulty or danger, which required nautical skill; but of this we are the less surprised, when we find that Captain Colnett had served under the celebrated navigator Capt Cook; to whose Works this publication will no doubt be considered as a valuable Supplement.

By the ship Boyne, arrived at New-York.

LONDON, June 7.

Extract of a letter from Capt. John Ainsworth, of the ship Polly, to his owners in Liverpool, dated Jamaica, 17th April.

"In lat. 3. 46, S. long. 22, W. I fell in with a large Spanish brig, and after a running engagement of four hours and a half captured her, called St. Antonia, from Teneriffe to Buenos Ayres. We expended 100 cannon cartridges, and upwards of 400 musquet and musquetoon cartridges, our sails and rigging were much cut, and several of our slaves slightly wounded by a shot that went through our side under the main chains, and broke two stancheons of the bulk head of the women's room. On the 12th of March, went into Barbadoes to land the prisoners, being 22.

"I left Barbadoes on the 26th March; in the morning of the 17th, fell in with a French schooner privateer, who chased us till two P. M. I then hove to for him, on which he shortened sail, and seemed consulting with his Officers; soon after he made sail, and came up under our quarter, when I gave him what guns I could get to bear; we had a number of our men slaves with small arms, who fought very well, and killed and wounded several of the privateer's people; he then attempted to board us on the quarter, and carried away our main sheet; at this time only small arms were fired, and if our people had been at the cabin guns, we must have sunk him. In their attempt to get up the side, I took a boarding pike, and threw it at them, which went through the side of one man into the thigh of another, and they both fell—he then sheered off, I can safely say he had 20 men, or upwards, killed or wounded, his decks being full of blood. We gave him three cheers, and chased him in our turn, but could not come up with him; he was full of men, but cannot say what force. I had one man wounded, our hull full of musket shot, and sails and rigging very much cut and shattered."

Between nine and ten o'clock on Saturday morning Col. Shadwell, of the 25th Light Dragoons, on his arrival at the Bull Inn, at Maidstone, where his regiments were in quarters, recognized two deserters of the 17th Light-Horse, and on allighting from his carriage, and enquiring where they were going, one of them, instead of shewing his furlough, fired his pistol, and shot the Col. through the body; the pistol was loaded with five slugs, which entered the officer in different places, and occasioned his death after staggering a few paces. The desperadoes being pursued by the towns-people, the fellow who shot the Col. snapped his pistol at them; it was returned with the contents of a fowling piece which wounded the offender in the head; the Coroner's Jury sat on Sunday evening, and the soldiers were committed to Maid-stone goal for the murder.

Extract of a letter from Citizen Niatel, Midshipman on board the ship Jemappes, dated Toulon, May 16.

"We sailed the 25th ult. from Brest, and proceeded to anchor in the road at Bertheaume. The fleet sailed on the 26th in the morning. We passed the Bar without seeing the English fleet, the signal for which off our coast had been made before our departure. A favourable wind carried us to the heights of Cadiz, where we perceived the English squadron.

"As soon as it was known, the order was given us to form the line of battle. We then manœuvred to get the weather gage. If the wind had not been very violent, it is certain that a battle must have taken place, the weather was however so violent, that we were disposed so, that at break of day we could no longer discern the English fleet. Several of our vessels had got such a distance from us, that they were missing.

"The signal was made to anchor in the port of Cadiz, but as the wind was adverse, we could not reach it. After having collected our ships, we sailed for the streights of Gibraltar.

"We have coasted along Spain. Being arrived before Carthagena, we remained there half a day before the port. We then continued our voyage, and passed in sight of the islands of Ilvica, Majorca, and Minorca. At length on the 13th we entered the port of Toulon in the best possible condition. I doubt whether we shall remain here a sufficient time to enable me to hear from you.

NEW-YORK, August 7.

Yesterday arrived here from Antigua, the English sloop Diana, commanded by Capt. Munckman, after a passage of 19 days.

Captain Munckman informs us, that an English frigate had just arrived there from a cruise, that had spoke another vessel at sea from England, which informed the Captain of the frigate, that LORD ST. VINCENT HAD FALLEN IN WITH THE SPANISH FLEET, AND AFTER A SEVERE ENGAGEMENT, TOOK AND DESTROYED TWENTY-TWO SAIL OF THE LINE; and that Admiral Nelson had driven the Brest Fleet into Toulon.

This news was published in the Antigua papers; but Captain M. did not bring one with him.

Capt. Munckman further informs, that the above frigate brought the news of the last victory gained by the Austria-Russian army and the taking of the French General Moreau.

The schooner William, Lamb, and several others, bound for New-York, were to sail with the English fleet on the 15th July.

[This news comes rather indirect—There is reason, however, to believe, that this frigate is the bearer of news at least as late as any we have had—and it may yet turn out that Lord St. Vincent has captured and destroyed some fleet—If the Spanish, it must have been reinforced.] [N.Y. D.Ad.]

The brig Ann, Capt. Law, got up yesterday from the Quarantine Ground. Left Vera-Cruz June 29, in co. with the ship Rose of N. York, and schr. Citizen, of Baltimore, both bound to the Havanna. Left at V. C. the sc. Zenith, of Philadelphia, to sail in two days. July 20, spoke the schr. Telegraphe, from Tortuga, bound to Jamaica.

The brig Jane & Eliza has arrived at the Quarantine Ground, in 13 days from the Havanna, by which we learn, that the ship Rose from Vera-Cruz, had arrived there the day before she sailed.

From the complexion of the last intelligence from Europe, there is reason to believe, that before this day, the whole of Italy is in possession of the Emperor and his auxiliaries.

The acquisition of this country must be of the utmost importance to the House of Austria, as, from the latest authors, it appears, that it contains 20.000,000 of inhabitants, who, heretofore, have been governed by a number of small Princes and Republics, which prevented the formation of that strength always necessary in order to act in concert; but, being subject to the Emperor, will enable him to augment his forces; which added to the vast revenue of the country and the fertility of the soil, will be fully adequate to support his army without embarrassment.

It may be here asked, what will be the result of all these advantages? It may, we think, be answered thus:

"By the time our Ministers to the Great Nation shall be ready to treat with France, she will be bowing to Austria bending her knee to Britain, and ready to make those just RETRIBUTIONS to America, which is due her as a Great, Free, and Independant People."

The war the United States have to maintain against France, is a war, to preserve her habits, religion, morals, property, and present form of Government. It is not possible for the imagination to depict any thing more stupendously wicked and criminal, than the politics of the French Directory. They encourage a large portion of the Irish nation to rebellion; they set them about murdering their neighbors, burning their houses, and destroying all the cattle in the kingdom; persuading these poor creatures, that all this must be done, to embarrass the English, and prevent their obtaining provisions for their fleets, in order that an army of Frenchmen may the more easily be thrown into the kingdom of Ireland, although the means of supporting this army must thus have vanished. But what are these enormities in *reality encouraged for? Have they ever intended to invade Ireland with a competent army, to subdue it; or as the Jacobins would term it, to restore the Irish to their liberties? No; they had encouraged the destruction of the means of supporting such an army in that island, and it is now evident to demonstration, that their real object lay elsewhere. And yet this dreadful deception, which has occasioned the sacrifice of so many lives in Ireland, is boasted of in the Aurora, as a master stroke of policy. Says the mild lucubrist, on this subject, "Upon the actual destination of this naval armament the friends of republican government can proudly say, there is no certainty, but in the bosoms of its projectors." What fiend-like bosoms are those of the projectors, in which this gentle writer rejoices, will best be seen by the long black list of human miseries, they have projected for Ireland, in order to conceal its destination. It is thus they will always treat their Irish friends, whenever their destruction will serve the purposes of their ambition.

The fairy land promised to our democrats is the millenium; those who promise it, the French philosophists, and the Godwins, men, whose writings, lives, and conduct exhibit the utmost contempt, for religion, morality, humanity and justice. It is however proper to notice, that before the millenium arrives, the directory have also promised to our democrats, all the pleasures "of the tempestuous sea of liberty."

The editor of the Aurora, (see that paper of the 6th July) while he acknowledges Mr. Jefferson to be the author of the letter to Mazzei, paraphrases the highly obnoxious and rebellious sentiment it contains, in the following toast. "The author of the declaration of independence, who prefers the activity of republicanism, to the calm of despotism." Two insurrections subdued, have not yet taught this man, that the lovers of their country, know how to sail with safety, on Mr. Jefferson's "tempestuous sea of liberty."

To be secure against French machinations, our military and naval preparations, must be such, as to demonstrate to the Directory, that it is in vain for them, to attempt, to disturb, the "calm of despotism" that reigns in the United States.

If the French succeed, in their expedition up the Mediterranean, and against the British fleet; it will bring them sooner to declare their intentions towards the United States. We shall then be presented, as the Switzers were, with the French code of liberty, a French constitution or death. And yet the Aurora (no longer since than the 11th ultimo) prays devoutly, that the French may annihilate the British fleet. Such are your lovers of "the tempestuous sea of liberty," and haters of our present state of order and good government, which they denominate, "the calm of despotism."

No. V.

MR. FENNO,

IN my last No. I threw out some reflections against a gentleman who has since convinced me that he had in no manner interested himself in the dispute; and although the information upon which I grounded the attack upon him would at the time have satisfied a less credulous man than myself, yet being completely assured that it was not true as stated to me, I voluntarily hasten as well in justification of myself as him, to declare that no personal resentment induced that publication, and that nothing short of almost positive conviction dictated to my mind the propriety of checking what at the time I thought arose from enmity on his part towards me; but satisfied as I now am of the contrary, I sensibly feel the impropriety of having made him a party in the dispute.

I now proceed to make some observations upon the term "Charity to the city of Philadelphia and districts." as used by my antagonist, and I confess I should be very glad to know what the author meant by such an expression. If in consequence of our share in Legislative grants and individual donations we are intitled as matter of right to have a certain number of diseased paupers in the Pennsylvania Hospital, how can the exercise of a right be deemed "receiving a charity?" Charity according to my conception of the term, implies the voluntary donation of something for which no equivalent has been given. Now if a consideration has been given, and if for that consideration a specific right of having a certain number of diseased poor in the Pennsylvania Hospital has been expresly reserved to the city and various counties in the state in certain proportions; what effrontery must that man possess who upbraids them for the partial exercise of this right, with being indebted to that institution for a charity. This indeed is small encouragement for Legislative grants or individual donation; few will be the men acting either as Legislators or individuals that will hereafter be inclined to swell the pride and insolence of that institution, at such an expence to their own feelings. Would it not be better for that institution in an open and candid manner, from time to time, publicly to declare as follows, "citizens of Philadelphia you are entitled in consequence of your Legislative grants and individual donations, received from you inhabitants towards the establishment and support of this institution to have received into on your account such a number of patients—Citizens of York and Lancaster such is your proportion—Citizens of Bucks and Chester such is your proportion." Has this ever been done? Do the public know in one city, county or district what proportion of patients they have a right to send to the Pennsylvania Hospital? No, my fellow citizens, you have been from time to time endowing this institution, for I cannot call it a charity—and the Managers being a body removable only by death or resignation—no regular rotation being established, the thing is conducted (well enough perhaps) but you are in the dark with respect to your rights; let the gentlemen then tell us what those rights are, and I will venture to assert the Managers of the Alms House will not trespass beyond them, and you shall no longer be insulted with the idea of receiving a charity, from a creature, that derives its existence and its importance from your public and private donations.

A PARODY on a Scene in MACBETH,

Scene up Franklin Court—Enter three Scribblers.

*1 Scribbler—When shall we three meet again
To vex the heart and wreck the brain?
*2 Scribbler—When the midnight moon invites,
When the howling cur affrights,
Then we'll hold our magic rites.
*3 Scribbler—Where the place?
2 Scribbler— In office high;
Above the earth, beneath the sky;
We'll the infernal ink prepare,
Fraught with mischief, discord, care:
1 & 3*d Scribbler*—We'll not fail to meet you there.

Exeunt.

GARRET SCENE.

A large pot of Printer's Ink standing on the floor. Enter three Scribblers.

1 Scribbler—Where hast thou been?
3 Scribbler— Hearing tales;
Private slander much prevails.
1 Scribbler—Brother, where thou?
2 Scribbler—With the noisy croud to sue
For a place I had in view.
Avaunt thee wretch! a fullen patriot cries;
Avaunt! the people thy request denies.
Revenge! Revenge for this I'll take;
Haste the infernal ink to make.
Though their cause cannot be lost;
Yet, I shall be vex'd and cross.
Seeds of discord we will sow:
Seeds that never fail to grow.
Dire dissention, envy, hate,
We'll not fail to propagate.
Numerous shall their off-spring be;
Scorpion-tongued—Hel's progeny.
Fair is foul, and foul is fair;
Haste! the infernal ink prepare.
1 Scribbler—Look what I have got—aher's name—
2 Scribbler—Oh! blast his fame!
3 Scribbler— Blast his fame!
2 Scribbler—And I a Senator's profound,
For wisdom, prudence truth renown'd
3 Scribbler—His deeds to infamy we'll turn all,
And murder in the Aurora Journal
Where malice sets her envenomed tooth,
Virtue's made vice and falshood truth.
Fair is foul and foul is fair;
Haste the infernal ink prepare.
1 Scribbler—The moon-struck cur begins to howl;
And hark! I hear the screaming owl.
'Tis time!—'tis time! and rites begin;
"'Tis only day-light that makes sin."
Round about the ink-pot go,
In the poisonous mixture throw.
All— Around, around, around,
About, about, about,
All ill come running in,
All good keep out.
1 Scribbler—Slime discharg'd from maw of snake,
Mantled on putrescent lake;
Gangreen, yellow, venom fraught,
Rankling spleen and gloomy thought
Engend'ring—here I've got—
And pour it in the enchanted pot.
All— Around, around, around,
About, about, about,
All ill come running in.
All good keep out.
2 Scribbler—Drop, that from a Lawyer's quill,
Sur-charg'd with mischief did distill.
Made of gall-nuts which did stew
In murky damps and baleful dew.
Magic drop, prepared with art,
To wreck the brain and vex the heart.
Mix thou in the enchanted pot—
Let nothing cleanse, where thou dost blot
All— Around, around, around,
About, about, about.
All ill come running in,
All good keep out.
3 Scribbler—So much for malice and deceit—
Go make the mixture quite complete,
A pert and wat'ry wit we'll join,
And let the task be mine.
1 & 2*d Scribbler*— 'Tis thine.
3 Scribbler—Scum, which yeastly billows throw
On the strand, when south winds blow;
Filthy, frothy excrement,
Steam in unctious cellules pent
Fermentative and flatulent,
To this the liquor have I got,
And stir it in the enchanted pot.
All— Around, around, around,
About, about, about.
All ill come running in,
All good keep out,

Morpheus rises.

Morpheus—'Tis well, and I commend your pains,
And every one shall share in the gains,
Behold three quills, three magic quills, I bring,
Pluck'd by three furies from a goose's wing
A geese long fed, and fattened on Green Hellibore, of Acheron.
Here's one for you—and you—and you.
All— Thanks mighty power! 'twill do, 'twill do
Morpheus—While I with vapors cloud the brain,
Alecto shall inspire;
Thus in your works will dullness reign,
Warm'd with malignant fire.
And now your former labors you may burn all
And daily scribble for the Aurora Journal.

POST SCRIPT.

A letter from Lisbon, received this morning, dated June 19, mention the arrival of a vessel from Hamburgh in a short passage, the Captain of which positively declared, a very decisive Battle had been fought on the Rhine, in which Massena and the greatest part of his Army were made prisoners:——It also mentions the expulsion of the French out of the Swiss country.

Another letter from Lisbon of the same date, mentions the King of Spain having signed a permission for the French troops to march through his territory to attack Portugal; the Portuguese are unanimously opposed to the French—the French are entirely expelled from Italy——Switzerland has risen en masse—at Lyons opposition to the Republic has again reared its head—Genoa is taken by the Austrians, the French just before leaving it levied three hundred thousand pounds sterling—Mantua is taken; the Cisalpine republic is no more, its directors have fled. A division of M'Donald's army has been destroyed by the Romans; several expresses, requiring his retreat have been intercepted. The Russians neither give nor receive quarters. Every Italian found in arms is shot or hung. The Archduke Charles has been very successful on the Rhine. The king of Prussia has collected an army of 25,000 in addition to his standing army. It states the arrival of the French fleet at Toulon, after having avoided a battle, although they had the weather-gage. The Spanish fleet arrived at Carthagena in a very shattered state; both French and Spanish are completely blocked up.

A number of American vessels have been captured by the French privateers, and carried into different ports in Spain and condemned without reserve by the French Consuls.

A Gentleman arrived from Bourdeaux, says he left the Captain and Supercargo of the Pigou at Paris, the ship and cargo had been given up, except 30,000 dollars!!

AT a meeting of the visitors and governors of St. John's college in the State of Maryland, on the 13th day of July 1799,

Resolved, That on the first day of October next, this board will proceed to elect a Professor of English and Grammar, who shall receive, for his services, at the rate of £200 per annum, to be paid quarterly; and that public notice thereof be given, &c. &c,

Test, A. C. HANSON.

N. B. The office aforesaid hath just become vacant, by the resignation of a gentleman, whose affairs require, the immediate undertaking of a voyage by sea.

It is the duty of the said Professor (to whom is allowed an assistant) to teach the English language grammatically, and to prepare students for a superior school, by teaching them the Latin grammar, the Vocabulary, and Cordery. Writing is to be taught to all his scholars at stated hours; and to those students who are not destined for the superior school, are to be taught, at the discretion of their parents, or guardians, Arithmetic, and other branches of science usually taught in English schools—A complete knowledge then of Latin, Arithmetic, &c. is considered indispensible in the professor; and it is expected, that candidates who are not known to the Board, will submit to an examination, as well as produce satisfactory testimonials of their good morals, and fair characters.

The Printers within the United States are requested to insert in their papers the foregoing resolution and remarks, and to repeat the publication, as often as convenience will admit, until the 20th day of September next.

By William Gifford, Esquire.

To which is prefixed,

A POETICAL EPISTLE TO THE AUTHOR

By an American Gentleman.

[In introducing this celebrated work to the Gentlemen and Ladies of America, I have endeavored to give it a dress proportioned to its distinguished merit, and to the taste of those for whose amusement and delight it is intended. No expence has been spared in the publication; and I flatter myself that the work does not yield, either in paper or print, to any one ever published in America.—This edition has an advantage over some former ones, as it contains by way of notes, the minor productions of the author; and, it has an advantage over every other edition, in the Poetical Epistle, which is prefixed to it, and which must be extremely gratifying to every lover of literature in this country, as it is a proof that there are Americans who have the taste to admire, the justice to applaud, and the talents to rival the Geniuses of other nations.
